|| SMB Spring Mount (Deflection : 25mm)

■ Features

As an enclosed spring mount, it has the spring between upper and bottom housings. An anchor hole is on the bottom housing and the tap is on the top housing, which allows level control of the bolt with a level bolt and nut to be used. Plus, the spring cap with a bolt guided hole is at the top of the spring to distribute the load transferred from the level bolt and the anti-frictioner is attached between upper and bottom housings, which somewhat reduces attenuation and friction caused by left-right and top-down relative displacement when the equipment is running. There is a CR pad attached on the bottom of the bottom housing to compensate disadvantages of the spring transferring high frequency due to a kind of surging effect.

|| VH50 Rubber Hanger (Deflection : 3.5~13mm)

■ Features

RH10 type anti-vibration rubber hanger prevents the transfer of vibration generated from equipment or its parts to the structure, and its housing is strong enough to stand load transferred and avoid resonance. With the open rubber having a static deflection of 3.5~13 mm, it can maintain the system's natural frequency down to 5~12 Hz.

■ Usage

- ◆ For machine rooms, ventilators in air conditioning rooms and ducts
- ◆ For small fan and duct in line fan
- ◆ For structures suspended from the ceiling of, for example, studios and acoustical laboratories
- ◆ For ceiling mounded FCU
